CAN YOU THINK OF A BETTER NAME

Dr. Charles Earle Funk, New York lexicographer and linguist, will judge entries in the West Texas Utilities Company's "name-a-housewife" contest, Mac Brundage, local manager, announced yesterday.

Information came yesterday from the general office in Abilene that Dr. Funk had accepted an invitation to name the winners in the campaign to "secure a more appropriate name for the modern West Texas woman."

Possibility that the name "housewife" may be omitted from dictionaries of the future was viewed as a result of Dr. Funk's participation as judge in the contest. He is senior member of the publishing firm of Funk and Wagnalls Company, New York, and is associate editor of the famous Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary. He has been given wide recognition as America's outstanding lexicographer.

The contest is based on the assumption that "the woman of today is no longer a slave to kitchen drudgery."

"This company is interested in selecting a name that will improve the English language," Brundage said. "We have long felt that the word 'housewife' is a misnomer. It has been worn out by advertisers and has lost its value as a word describing the average woman in the average home. But there is no word that accurately applies to the woman who conducts her home economically and efficiently while at the same time developing herself intellectually and socially."

Selection of Dr. Funk as judge assures entrants "of a competent authority on the meaning of words and should result in national recognition for the winner as well as the reward of first prize, a super-duty Fridgidaire," Brundage said.

Entries in the $500 contest, which closes August 14, will be sent immediately to Dr. Funk. A total of 13 prizes will be awarded.

AUGUST PROGRAM FOR PAN-AMERICAN GAMES ANNOUNCED

DALLAS, July 28.—With the first unit of the Pan-American Games acclaimed as an outstanding success the Pan American's sports department this week turned attention to the events scheduled for August.

Tops on the program for next month will be the second unit of the Games—an international boxing tournament to be held August 12, 14 at the Cotton Bowl.

Already on their way to the United States are 16 South American champions from Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay. They will arrive in New York July 28 and will be in Dallas a few days later. Meeting this group in fistic combat here will be an all-star squad of 16 U. S. boxers with a few Central Americans tossed in.

There will be 10 bouts on each of the two first nights and eight championship bouts on the final night. Except for ringside seats, the boxing show, like the thrilling track and field and soccer meet last week, will be free to Exposition visitors.

Other sports are on the August program. A national invitation amateur wrestling tournament will be held at the amphitheatre August 6-7. Already listed as entries are several 1936 Olympic participants and national champions. A Pan American motor boat race regatta is scheduled for August 8 at White Rock lake. The Pan American Skeet tournament will be held August 14-15.

Approximately 50,000 people attended the Pan American games recently. The 23,000 in the stands on the final night were rewarded by witnessing the breaking of a world record by Ol' John Woodruff, Pittsburgh Negro, in the 800 meters.

Miss Christine Burnham, McCaulley, had minor surgery Monday.

Little Miss Kitty Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Burke, had tonsillectomy Tuesday.

Little Miss Nadine Maberry, McCaulley, had tonsillectomy Thursday afternoon.

MOSQUITOES IN ABILENE

From the Abilene Morning News we see others are afflicted with mosquitoes as well as Hamlin. Read this:

Choking clouds of smoke soared skyward, sending spectators scurrying to cover as flames licked at a trio of buildings early Tuesday morning in Abilene's south side business section.

All-night eating places were deserted even by their cooks and scores rolled out of beds in nearby hotels to witness the desperate battle against the flames.

Few seemed distressed by interruption of their slumbers. They appeared on the streets in undershirts, pajama-shirts and house shoes.

One, who had been gazing out his window just before the fire broke out, even gleaned a ray of sunshine through the stifling smoke clouds.

"Gee, I hope this smoke drives the damned mosquitoes out of that hotel I'm living in," he exclaimed.

COOPERATE TO KILL MOSQUITOES

Cisterns, open drains, cans, barrels, etc., around the home are breeding places for mosquitoes; in fact, most of our mosquitoes are hatched around our homes. We are asking the citizens of the town to cooperate with us in a drive to control the mosquito situation, by keeping all cisterns, open drains, or any other open water, well oiled for the balance of the summer. If you know of any place that needs special attention, call the City Hall or the City Pump Station.

Respectfully,
CITY COUNCIL

HOMER GALYEN DIES

OF HEART ATTACK

Funeral services for Homer Galyen, who died of a heart attack at 5:00 P. M. Tuesday afternoon at his home three miles north east of McCaulley, were held at the Methodist church at Neinda at 4:30 P. M. Wednesday, conducted by Rev. J. R. Bateman, Methodist pastor, with interment in the Neinda cemetery.

Mr. Galyen had been under treatment of a physician for several days but his illness was not considered as serious. He suddenly succumbed while sitting in a chair in his home. The body was conveyed to Hamlin and prepared for burial by Maples Funeral Home, then taken to the home of Carol Lee, brother of Mrs. Galyen, three miles north of McCaulley, where it remained until 4:00 P. M. Wednesday.

A large crowd of relatives and friends followed the remains to the for the burial rites.

Pall bearers were R. M. Jones, A. A. Calloway, Hollis Madden, J. A. Morris, Fred and Frank Kemp. Flower girls were Misses Fannie and Annie Calloway, Geraldine Henderson, Mary Ellen Jackson, Geneva George and Macie Johnson.

The following relatives of the deceased survive: The widow, Mrs. Ollie Galyen; a stepmother, Mrs. Etie Galyen, Bangs, Texas; two half-sisters, twins, Ima Dell and Roma Dell, Masonic Home, Ft. Worth; a sister, Mrs. Oran Gibson, Waco; four brothers, Clarence, Jack, and Otis, Waco; and Tom, Tahoka.

The Methodist congregation will begin a revival meeting at the tabernacle on Friday night of this week. The pastor, J. R. Bateman, will be assisted in the preaching by Rev. W. E. Fisher of Rotap. The meeting is scheduled to close on the Second Sunday in August.

GO TO DALLAS MARKET

Mrs. Carl Greenway, Mrs. Ross Fomby and Kurt Schoemann of the sales force of Strauss' Dry Goods Co. went to Dallas this week to attend the markets. While there, they will see the fashion shows and attend the style revues, making purchases of the new fall line of merchandise for all departments of the Hamlin store. Also they will bring back with them a selection of mid summer merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gray, of Georgetown, spent several days here looking after their farms in Jones County. They sympathize with dear old Hamlin when they see our lakes looking so thin.

HAMLIN'S COWGIRL SPONSOR INVITED TO WACO RODEO

WACO, July 28.—Elaborate plans for the annual Central Texas Championship rodeo, to be held at Katy Park here on August 13, 14, and 15, are being made by Coach Ralph Wolf and the Bear club as they prepare to receive 100 or more cowgirl sponsors and the greatest array of rodeo talent to be assembled.

Invitations have been mailed different Texas towns and cities for sponsors for the mammoth show. Many have already answered in the affirmative.

Proceeds will go to the Bear club to be used to help athletes through Baylor university. The rodeo was staged in September last year, and despite the inclement weather, it was a success both from the standpoint of entertainment and finances.

Having visited all of the outstanding rodeos of the state this year, they have learned new tricks and new methods to advance in the 1937 show. Thousands are expected to attend the three-day meet from all sections of Texas.

Miss Frances Eddie Beck, representative of Hamlin at the Stamford Cowboy Reunion this year, has been invited to attend and be Hamlin's sponsor to the Central Texas Championship rodeo. Prizes will be awarded and sponsors will be honored with special ceremonies.

McCAULEY H. D. CLUB MET JULY 21ST

These two will leave on August 15th for A. & M.

After adjournment a delightful plate of sandwiches, fruit salad and iced tea was served by the hostess.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

VISITORS—The office this past week has seen the smiling faces of Jack Sweeney of Breckenridge, A. H. Demke of Stephenville, George Bennett and James Beall, Jr., of Sweetwater, W. L. Fletcher of Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Stephenson, formerly of McCaulley, but now residing in Baltimore, and Cliff Caldwell of Abilene.

YEARBOOKS—In the installation of the air cooling system we found several thousand Agriculture Yearbooks which were being discarded and we have made up about sixty complete sets of them for twenty years which are now being shipped out right away for the school libraries. They will go to those schools which have Vocational Agriculture first. Then to the other schools in order.

DIVERSIFIED INTERESTS — From what I have been able to see of the work here in our office we have about as diversified interest in the 17th district as is possible for any inland district to have. Water transportation is about the only interest which our district does not have some action at this time.

NORMAL GRANARY—A letter was sent to Chairman of the Senate and House Committees by the President asking favorable consideration for a broad program of farm legislation, including continuance of soil conservation efforts and Secretary Wallace's over-normal granary plan for stabilization of farm prices over prosperous and lean years. The bill has been introduced by Chairman Marvin Jones of the Agricultural Committee.

TENANCY BILL — The Administration's farm tenancy program, after a conference report, was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure calls for a permanent program of loans to tenants and includes a provision of $50,000,000 to purchase and retire sub-marginal land over a period of three years.

SOCIAL SECURITY—Every state and territory in the United States now has an employment insurance law that conforms with the Social Security Act. The last State law, that of the state of Illinois, was approved by the Social Security Board. It is estimated that twenty-one million workers are employments covered by the 51 proved unemployment insurance laws which provide compensation to employees who lose their jobs through no fault of their own. The amount given, varies in different states.

TAX AVOIDANCE — The Joint Congressional Tax Avoidance Committee concluded hearing and executive sessions were started to draft legislation to plug loopholes in existing income tax laws.

AIR TRAINING — Any young men between the ages of 20 and have an opportunity to go to Army Air Corps Training School two years and serve another year as a second lieutenant in the Reserve Corps with all expenses paid and $4 a month pay during the training period. Besides being between 20 and 26 years of age, an applicant must be unmarried, in sound mental and physical condition, and must agree to stay with the corps for at least three years. An applicant must submit in triplicate application blanks be obtained from the Adjutant General, in Washington, D. C., and turn them with three letters of recommendation and a certificate from his college showing that he has completed at least half the regular college course. The applicant will then be notified when and where to appear for a physical examination.

LAG IN BUILDING—Home building early this year showed signs of giving the nation's business a decided lift. Then in May came slackening and in June a definite setback. This is regarded by the President as his advisors as a major important point. They have taken the matter into consideration and the point the make is that there exists a definite shortage of one family dwelling units in this country. There is a pressure on the existing supply as population increases, marriages increase and the "doubling up" of depression days goes into reverse. Rent have skyrocketed, as a result of this President Roosevelt is exploring the situation and is working on a remedy.

The Herald is glad to report that Mrs. J. C. Bledsoe, who has been ill at her home on Union Avenue for the past three years, is much improved and was able to go driving Tuesday night. J. O. Jones drove her around Hamlin and out to the Shell Pipe Line Station. This was the first time that Mrs. Bledsoe has been able to get out since her illness, and she says that Hamlin and the Hamlin country look mighty good, even though it has not rained.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Griffin, of Okemah, Oklahoma, are visiting relatives here this week.

DANGERING THE PUBLIC HEALTH

A Department of Agriculture survey indicates that providing the right food for a family of five in proper quantity, calls for an expenditure of approximately $50 per month.

Inasmuch as not more than a third the family income can be spent for food, a healthful diet cannot be had if the income of a family is less than $150 per month. Surveys, such as this, being necessarily limited in scope, cannot be entirely accurate. But these figures point squarely to one fact: That present legislative efforts to hamper low-cost merchandisers, fix prices, and outlaw economical retailing methods are a direct threat to the public health.

It is an old truism that in a period of recovery, prices usually rise faster than the individual income. At is true today, as it was following the mild depression of 1921 during the recovery of 1908. In the face of this, for government to officially inflate prices is nothing more than a social crime.

The law should make every effort to keep a maximum amount of honest competition in merchandising. It should use the authority of the trust laws to make price fixing illegal. It should encourage, rather than discourage, low-cost retailing which distributes charges between producers and consumers. Only if this is done, can the average family's food dollar purchase the commodities necessary to health and comfortable living.

JOBS FOR THE UNDERTAKER

Four out of every five automobile accidents are on dry roads in clear weather. Four out of every five automobile accidents involve cars driving straight ahead.

Here is the statistical proof of the disregard for every rule of courtesy and safety that characterizes the reckless or incompetent motorist. He constantly overestimates the "safety factors" of good roads and modern cars. A straight highway and a clear day act as bait to make him "open her up" with the result that the undertaker gets about 37,000 new accounts each year.

A National Safety Council survey lists the seven most important causes of fatal accidents, in order, as follows: Exceeding speed limit or driving too fast for road and weather conditions; driving on the wrong side of the road; disregarding stop signs and signals; usurping right of way; cutting in; passing on hills and curves; failure to signal for stopping and turning.

These driving errors cause the greatest bulk of all serious accidents, and the first is by far the worst. Every one of them is a human error—and every accident they produce could be prevented if individual drivers would observe the most elementary rules of caution and proper driving.

In conclusion, here is one more fact you might think over the next time you feel the urge to step on it: At 20 miles per hour, one accident in 61 is fatal, while at 50 or more miles per hour, one accident in every 11 produces a corpse.

Annoyances

WHAT annoys you most? If your reactions are similar to those of more than 200 people examined by Hulse Cason, professor of psychology at the University of Rochester, the most annoying thing that can happen to you is to have a person cough in your face. Next is the sight of a dirty bed, next is to hear a mosquito near you when you are trying to go to sleep and the others, in the order of their importance, are:

A young person showing disrespect for a much older person.

Flies.

A person continually complaining about something.

To have a hole in your stocking or sock.

A person continually criticizing something.

A salesman trying to force you to buy something.

A person behaving as if he (or she) thinks he (or she) knows it all.

A person being inquisitive about your personal affairs.

To be disconnected while talking over the telephone.

To have to wait for a person who is late for an engagement.

To hear a person eating soup noisily.

A person continually talking about his (or her) illnesses.

To see a boisterous person attracting attention to himself (or herself) in public.

A person giving you a good deal of advice when you have not asked him (or her) for it.

A person putting his (or her) hands on you unnecessarily.

ABOUT PELLAGRA

"Pellagra is a disease that is caused by not eating the right kind of food and shows itself usually by a strange kind of reddening and scaling of the skin," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The person with pellagra usually suffers loss of appetite, indigestion, diarrhea, soreness of the mouth and tongue, nervousness, low spirits and more or less general weakness.

"Thousands of Texans suffer with this disease and approximately one thousand die each year. More cases appear in the spring and early summer months than at any time of the year. This is because more people live on a restricted diet during the winter. It comes to those whose diet does not contain all that is needed to keep one in good health. The missing essential in the diet is called the pellagra prevention factor or vitamin. We know this because people who eat the right food do not have the disease, because those who do have the disease and eat the right kind of food do get well and remain well as long as they maintain a proper diet and also when people are fed the wrong kind of food they develop the disease. Pellagra is not a communicable disease. The treatment should be directed by your doctor and the main thing is diet. Do not rely on patent medicines.

"The prevention of pellagra depends upon eating the right kind of food at all times. To make sure that the diet is right, it should always contain plenty of milk daily, some fresh meat and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, yeast, and fresh fruits are especially valuable. Having provided these essentials of a proper diet, the rest may be arranged according to family or personal likes. In this way, you avoid pellagra."

Proclaiming the virtues of friends is more profitable than listing the faults of enemies.

$50,000 Signature

THERE'S no doubt that John D. Rockefeller's signature, or that of J. P. Morgan, would be worth $50,000—if it were on a check! But the only American whose written name (not on a check) has ever been worth that amount was Button Gwinnett.

Gwinnett was born in England in 1732. Despite the fact, he can be listed as an American because he came to America in 1770, was chosen as a delegate from Georgia to the Continental congress and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

The next year he was an unsuccessful candidate for governor and he was also defeated as candidate for brigadier-general of the Georgia militia by Gen. Lachlin McIntosh. As a result of a quarrel, Gwinnett challenged McIntosh to a duel which was fought with pistols at 12 feet. He was mortally wounded and died on May 27, 1777.

Most of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence lived for many years after that historic event, wrote many letters or signed many documents. But with Gwinnett's career cut off in less than a year after he joined that company of immortals, he left few examples of his handwriting. So his autograph is the rarest of all the signers and it is that rarity which gives it such great value.

In 1926 Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the noted collector, paid $22,500 for a will which was signed by Gwinnett as a witness. That was an unheard-of price for an autograph. But it was only the beginning of a "boom in Button Gwinnetts."

Later in the year this same collector bought another—this time a signature on a promissory note and it cost him $28,500.

In 1927 an all-time record for autograph prices was reached when Dr. Rosenbach paid $51,000 for a letter signed by Button Gwinnett and four other signers of the Declaration who were serving on the marine committee of the Continental congress. Aside from the Declaration it is the only known document dealing with national affairs which this Georgian signed.

SEE THE LATEST GAS APPLIANCES AT DALLAS EXHIBIT

Latest modern gas appliances and conveniences for Texas people are on display at an exhibit sponsored by the Lone Star Gas System at the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition in Dallas. Featuring cooking appliances, general heating, water heating, refrigeration, air conditioning, and industrial uses of gas, the exhibit shows how the gas industry is bringing improved service to consumers.

Covering 16,000 square feet in a wing of the Varied Industries building, the area is air conditioned by gas and affords a cool place for relaxation for Exposition visitors. The exhibit houses a comfortable auditorium which has a seating capacity of 250. The stage is equipped with a model gas kitchen.

A daily feature is a free cooking demonstration given on the auditorium stage by Miss Albertine Berry, home economics director for the Lone Star Gas System. Miss Berry prepares a complete meal for a family. At the conclusion of each demonstration, visitors are chosen from the audience by a drawing and invited to dine with a company hostess at a dinner, food for which is prepared by Miss Berry at the cooking demonstrations. Each cooking demonstration begins at 4:30 p. m. daily and concludes at 6 o'clock when the dinners are served in a private dining room near the auditorium. Adjoining the auditorium also is another model kitchen from which visiting housewives may secure suggestions for planning their own model kitchens.

In addition to sponsoring this exhibit, Lone Star Gas System also furnishes as a hospitality center for women visitors at the Exposition the Pan American Hostess House, the former Hall of Religion which was built for the Texas Centennial Exposition in 1936 by Lone Star stockholders.

TREASURES NEW AND OLD FOR DIMES AND QUARTERS

Have never passed a second-hand bookstore unless entering it was absolutely out of the question.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

DON'T overlook, as one of the legitimate joys of increasing years, the charms of the second-hand bookstores. Some of the happiest moments of my life have been spent in them; among the few possessions I should really hate to lose are the treasures I have found there.

Yet the possibilities are even now so little appreciated by some women that only a few days ago a friend could seriously say to me, as I paused at one of the long street tables engagingly marked "35c. each—three for a dollar," and say reproachfully, "Oh, come now. You can afford to buy new books!"

By which remark she betrayed the dreadful truth that she didn't know anything about those fascinating dark lairs where the backwash of all the volumes that ever have been written are continually churning about, bringing to the surface now a battered old volume of one of the "Duchess" novels, now Stirling's long-lost study of Carlisle, or "Our Mutual Friend" with Cruikshank illustrations and Dickens' own signature in it.

My own early impression of second-hand bookstores was that they were shops, usually dirty, disorderly and filled with cheap socialistic pamphlets to which one went when one positively couldn't afford a new book, or even a magazine. It was a great San Francisco lawyer who presently introduced me to the delights of them. He met me in lower Broadway one sunny morning, when I was idly walking and he browsing over the inexhaustible stalls. He said he always wished that he had a lifetime for the old bookstores. For the first time I heard the words "Elzvir" and "collector's item." Won to a surprised interest I bought the life of Elizabeth Prentice for 35 cents, because I had batted on her "Stepping Heavenward" as a young girl. I also bought for 15 cents a book about the Martinique volcano. This volume, incidentally, is now listed at $240, and is unprocurable.

That was the beginning. Since then I never have passed a second-hand bookstore unless entering it was absolutely out of the question. The children of the family have been nourished upon rows of shabby old books; they have found favorites of my own childhood at which to laugh and wonder, "Dotty Dimple," "The Lamplighter," "The Wide, Wide World."

In my own special biography library there are more than two thousand volumes; four-fifths of them have come from the old bookstores of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, New York, Boston, London. There are blocks of Charing Cross Road, where it departs at a tangent from the busy Strand, that are lined with tables, with book-enclosed doorways, with enchantment and ravishment for lovers of books. East Fifty-ninth Street is another haunt where you can buy "Othello" for ten cents or for hundreds of dollars.

A woman's simple story of her escape from Gwalior started me into the long list of the Sepoy Mutiny books; soldiers' stories, women's stories, good and bad, rare and ordinary, there must have been a flood of them in the Eighteen-Fifties, all out of print now, but all wonderful reading.

Then there are the missionary biographies. They sound so dull; they are so thrilling! Just the diaries of the quiet good women who went forth from New England homes into the unknown jungles of Africa, frightened, homesick, seasick, suffering from pestilences and savage uprisings and heat and insects; mixed difficult childbearing, the terror of tom-toms and jungle sweats in with the teaching of the Word, and presently came home older and wiser and tired to write "Our Years in Sarawak" and sell the volume for thirty-five cents to pay for the carpet in some New Hampshire church. One woman came home childless, although she had born seven children in ten years among the savages. "The little flowers all faded along our hard, hot road," she explains it patiently. In wattle huts upon festering rivers, with the yells of head-hunters or the growl of beasts in their ears, they remembered the quiet elm-shaded streets of home, the big clean kitchens where bread and pies were baked, the peaceful ringing of churchbells and the meadows where black-eyed-Susans starred the green grass.

Perhaps two hundred of my books tell the story of the great women who helped to build the younger America; Lucretia Mott, Harriet Beecher Stowe, the Grimke sisters, Julia Ward Howe, Frances Willard, Susan B. Anthony, Sarah J. Hale. The life of a great Englishwoman, Elizabeth Fry, was suddenly under my hands one day, in two great filling volumes. This gentle Quaker managed to bear thirteen children—her youngest daughter was born on the same day and in the same room as her oldest grandson—and yet to do such marvelous work for women, in the dreadful prisons of the day, that all prison laws have been changed since.

Hundreds of women's stories; some thrilling, some painting a picture of long dead days; some infinitely touching. Shoulder to shoulder with "C. Auton's" delicious picture of a child's life in America in a crowded household whose mistress "could remember General Washington" is Mrs. Tait's own story of the loss, in a single week, of eight of her precious ten children—she being the wife of England's great archbishop. And beside them, perhaps, is the extraordinary recital of Opal, the seven-year-old who lay on her stomach under a bed and wrote down thousands and thousands of words at a stretch, on crumpled old bags and odds and ends of wrapping paper.

One day, to read on the long train trip west, I hastily bought two thick volumes called "The Worst Journey in the World" because I saw the name "Cherry" on them, and supposed them to be by a woman. Whether the worst journey was into the Himalayas or the jungle I didn't know; I was rather daunted, upon beginning the book, to discover that it was written by an Englishman whose full name is Apsley Cherry-Garrard, and that it described Scott's attempt to reach the South Pole.

To say it is a great book is an exaggeration, for it is amateurishly written, in spots, and makes no pretensions toward style. But it is a simple fact that I never have enjoyed any book more.

It was the pioneer in a long row of Polar travel books, most of them long out of print, and only to be found on the upper shelves of certain old bookstores. Neither Amundsen nor Peary, who actually reached the poles, nor Cook, who said he did, have contributed anything of especial interest to this collection, but there are other and older explorers whose pages are simply breath-taking. De Long's journal, Melville's drift on the ice, Tyson's diary, and above all the elegant and articulate Mikkelsen's "Lost in the Arctic" and Nansen's exquisite, half-practical, half-occult story of "Farthest North" are all "tops"; there are others with bits and scraps and passages one never forgets. Greeley, rescued at last with some seven or eight of his starved, enfeebled, despairing men, in a collapsed tent on Cape Sabine, Greeley tugging at his glove before extending his emaciated blackened hand toward his preserver, presents a perfectly typical picture of arctic courage. "Here we are, dying like men. I'm glad to see you!"

Habits can ride us cruelly in the course of our lives. But the second-hand bookstore habit is not an expensive one, not disagreeable to anyone in any way, and will eventually afford a tremendous occupation and distraction to the woman who feels some of the younger currents of amusement and excitement running dry.

To build hobbies into our lives is one of the ways of cheating the years. Gardens, cats, etchings, it doesn't matter what it is as long as it interests us wholly. Middle-age, as every woman who lives to reach it discovers for herself, is rather like a bank. Unless you have put something into it you cannot draw anything out. Women who have been taking rather than giving for forty years find a blank wall ahead of them when they reach the time that ought to be the happiest of all. And yet autumn has charms of which spring and summer know nothing for those women who have a harvest to bring in.

But O'PHILOSOPHY
by DEAN E.V. WHITE

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN (CMA)

All one wants is too much — all he needs is sufficient.

As a business asset, a forced smile is like cold coffee on a winter morning.

There was a time

—when old fashioned heating methods blistered your face while your back shivered.

But now . . .

with natural gas service, winter can be just another pleasant, healthful season in the modern home.

A timely reminder

The tag end of summer warns that treacherous days of winter are on the way.

DO you remember the old days? Old-fashioned methods of heating... children wore heavy underwear and long stockings in order to keep warm... members of the family "huddled" in one or two rooms during cold weather... mother went shivering about the house with a shawl around her shoulders... someone was always "catching cold" — Remember?

There is a direct relationship between your family's health during winter months and the way you heat your home.

The cold germ is responsible for more than two hundred million illnesses each year. Don't give a "common cold" an even break!

Sudden changes of temperature during the treacherous months of cold weather are dangerous. If you follow the old-fashioned practice of "huddling" in one or two rooms while the rest of the house remains unheated — YOU ARE TAKING CHANCES WITH YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH. Plan now to have adequate heat and healthful temperatures in every room in the home this winter. It's the modern way to fight the "common cold."

PRACTICAL COOKERY

DEPT. OF HOME ECONOMICS,
T. S. C. W., DENTON

DENTON.—Baking powder biscuits, so easy to make, offer a variety of suggestions to the busy housewife. They are particularly good for lunches or suppers.

(Cheese biscuits are delicious with fruit salad and for breakfast nothing can top cinnamon rolls. Here are a few other variations which can make a meal into an occasion.

BAKING POWDER BISCUIT: 3 cups flour, 1 t. salt, 1/2 t. baking powder, 1/2 t. shortening, and 1 c. milk. Sift dry ingredients, work in shortening with fingers, fork or two knives until the mixture is like very coarse corn meal. Add liquid all at once and stir quickly until mixture thickens. Place dough on a lightly floured board and roll or pat out 1/2 to 1 inch thickness. If a fine grain is desired they should be kneaded for about 1/2 minute. Cut with floured cutter and place biscuits in baking pan. Bake at 425 F. for 2 to 15 minutes.

CHEESE BISCUITS: Add 1/2 c. grated cheese to biscuit dough or sprinkle cheese on top of biscuits.

CINNAMON ROLLS: Roll dough 1/2 inch thick. Spread with butter, cinnamon and sugar. Roll dough in long roll and cut crosswise 1-2 to 1 inch thick.

DROP OR EMERGENCY BISCUITS: Drop from spoon on greased tin and bake as baking powder biscuit.

FRUIT BISCUIT: 1 c. white flour, 1 c. whole wheat flour, 1 T. brown sugar, 4 t. baking powder, 1/2 salt, 2 T. fat, 3/4 to 1 c. milk, 1/2 chopped dates. Combine according to the biscuit method, adding the dates last.

ORANGE BISCUIT: Add 2 T. sugar and 2 T. finely cut orange peel to biscuit dough. Press in top of each biscuit a piece of loaf sugar which has been soaked in orange juice.

VIRGINIA BISCUIT: 2 c. flour, 4 t. baking powder, 1/2 t. salt, 1 T. sugar, 2 T. peanut butter, 3/4 c. milk. Combine according to biscuit method.

"Typhoid Mary"

WHEN her Irish parents brought her to a priest in New York city one day, he christened her Mary Mallon. But on hospital records in the East she became only a number, or more specifically, "Carrier No. 36." For she was the famous "Typhoid Mary."

Back in 1904 there occurred mysterious outbreaks of typhoid fever in certain sections of Westchester, Long Island and other districts around New York city. Examination of food and water failed to give any clues to the origin of the bacilli which were causing it.

But Dr. George Soper, a sanitary engineer in the municipal health service, remembered a German bacteriologist had proved that some people, while immune themselves to typhoid, carried the germ and gave the fever to others. Tracing the outbreaks he found that an Irish cook named Mary Mallon had, in every instance, been employed in the stricken household. He learned also that Mary, at the first hint of each illness, fled from her job.

Finally the health authorities caught up with her and in 1907 she was detained and, against her will, given an examination. She was found to be infected with millions of typhoid bacilli. She went to court to gain her freedom but lost her suit. Finally, in 1910, she was freed.

However, typhoid epidemics began again and in each case Mary Mallon was found to have been the cook. Again she was confined in a hospital. Eventually she became resigned to her fate, was given a laboratory job and then furnished a little cottage of her own on North Brother's Island, where she lived in semi-imprisonment for 21 years.

She died a few years ago—but not from typhoid. First there was a stroke of paralysis from which she rallied. During the next three years she gradually failed and finally, when she was sixty-six years old, death opened the door for the frail, gray-haired little woman and "Typhoid Mary's" long imprisonment was ended.

KNOW TEXAS

By F. L. McDONALD, T. S. C. W.
NEWS BUREAU, DENTON

TEXAS WOMEN OUTNUMBERED

DENTON. — There are approximately one hundred thousand more men than women in Texas, according to the last population figures. The actual totals are 2,965,994 males as compared to 2,851,721 females. Another interesting tabulation shows that more than one million more Texans live on farms and in rural areas than in cities.

OFFICIAL SYMBOLS

The state tree of Texas is the pecan, its bird, the mockingbird, its motto "Friendship", and its flower, of course, the bluebonnet. "Texas, Our Texas," composed by Gladys Y. Wright and W. J. Marsh, was officially adopted as the state song in 1929. The Seal of the State is a star of five points encircled by olive and live oak branches with the words "The State of Texas" inscribed.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Strange sources furnished some of the names of Texas towns. Amarillo, which is the Spanish word for "yellow" is said to be named for the coloring of the walls of Palo Duro canyon. Three men put names into a hat and drew out the official title of "Aubrey," which was the name of one of their girl friends. The town of Blessing was given that name by John E. Pierce in appreciation of its founding. He wanted to call it "Thank God" but the railroad objected. "Sacul and Tensun" are "Lunas" and "Sunset" spelled in reverse, but no one knows who had the backwards idea or why the towns were so named.

CROSSING BRIDGES

Denton, Texas.—As Texans whisk by the cement posts of modern highway bridges they seldom realize what a great number of these structures have been built to fill the needs of the state's widespread highway system. On January 1 of this year there were a total of 7,127 bridges maintained on state highways, and by far the largest amount of these, 4,855, were concrete. This figure does not include underpasses, of which there are 311.

LARGEST CITIES

Even with the friendly rivalry between several Texas cities as to population totals, surprisingly few people know the ranking of the ten largest cities in the state. According to the 1930 census, Houston heads the list with 292,352, Dallas and San Antonio are in second and third places, and Fort Worth, El Paso, Beaumont, Austin, Galveston, Waco and Port Arthur follow in order.

Barber: "Hair-cut?"

—The Bee-Hive (East Hartford, Conn.)

"OVER THERE"

After surveying the plight of labor "over there," as recently summarized by Col. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, one is bewildered by some of the actions of organized labor in this country. A typical skilled worker in Germany, a linotype operator, earns $540 annually. From this is deducted such items as taxes and insurance, contributions to the "labor front," contributions to relief funds, etc., etc. The $540 ultimately shrinks to a net annual income of $444.00.

On the assumption that worker has a wife and three children, living expenses were divided as follows:

Rent, $57.71; light and heat $20.70; food $244.06; clothing, $56.83; miscellaneous, including transportation, washing, furniture, education and amusement, $61.26. This makes a total of $440.56, leaving $4.04 for a rainy day!

Of course, simply because the workers of another nation happen to be less fortunate than the workers in the United States, is no valid reason per se for criticizing American labor. But the straitened circumstances of labor in the illustration just cited, should indicate the advantages enjoyed by labor in our country.

Freedom, as we know it, demands as its price of continued existence, constant vigilance to see that the rights of the individual are not destroyed by regimentation and bureaucratic dictation from any source, as they have been in many foreign countries.

AN INDEX OF

A CHANGED CONDITION

The Santa Fe's net operating income for June was $3,783,468, according to a statement released by President Samuel T. Bledsoe, today. This is an increase of $1,996,109 over June of last year.

Gross income for the Santa Fe System was $15,283,933, an increase over June, 1936, of $1,986,928, or 14.94 per cent. Operating expenses were $12,171,094, an increase of $1,673,254, or 15.94 per cent over the same period of a year ago.

Of the increase in operating expense, $889,884 was on account of maintenance of way and structures and equipment, and $681,582 on account of additional train miles necessitated by increased business. The balance was made up of increase in miscellaneous items.

Railway tax accruals for the month decreased $1,914,433 as a result of a net credit derived from adjustment of railroad retirement taxes for the period, March 1, 1936 to May 3, 1937. Accruals under the railroad retirement and social security acts for the month were $355,540.

That the Santa Fe's gain in income is rather consistent for the month of June is shown by the following brief statement of comparison:

Gross Income:
1937	$15,283,933
1936	$13,297,005
1935	$10,779,207
Net operating income:
1937	$3,783,468
1936	$1,787,359
1937	$999,951

TOPPING THEM ALL

Highest mountain in Texas is Guadalupe Peak, located near El Paso in the extreme western section of the state and rising 9,000 feet above sea level. Forming the southern end of the Guadalupe mountains in Culbertson County, it is quite a hill, even though not comparing with the 29,140 feet of Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain.
